Instructor: Lydia Montgomery Mumford

Join one, two or all workshops where there will be different projects each week! Lydia will bring many ideas to the workshops, allowing the group to decide in which direction to go.

Lydia has been sewing since age five and eventually began sewing garments and gifts for her friends and family. While attending high school, Lydia led a team of her peers in costume design for several musical theater productions. She earned her teaching degrees in English and Literacy from SUNY Cortland. Lydia established "Lydia's Daily Thread" in 2013 as her home-studio sewing business, creating costumes and custom orders of many kinds. She enjoys helping children make gifts and heirloom creations that hold special meaning.
