

Summer Assignment

Modern European History begins with the Renaissance. Yet it is very difficult to fully appreciate the Renaissance without a deep understanding of 14th medieval Europe. Indeed Europe as we know it took shape in the 14th century, allowing it to excel in the 15th century. This summer I would like you to read the first part of a book that details the calamitous 14th century. Below is a review.

In "A Distant Mirror, a historical narrative, Barbara Tuchman writes of the cataclysmic 14th century, when the energies of medieval Europe were devoted to fighting internecine wars and warding off the plague. Some medieval thinkers viewed these disasters as divine punishment for mortal wrongs; others, more practically, viewed them as opportunities to accumulate wealth and power. One of the latter, whose life informs much of Tuchman's book, was the French nobleman Enguerrand de Coucy, who enjoyed the opulence and elegance of the courtly tradition while ruthlessly exploiting the peasants under his thrall. Tuchman looks into such events as the Hundred Years War, the collapse of the medieval church, and the rise of various heresies, pogroms, and other events that caused medieval Europeans to wonder what they had done to deserve such horrors.
